Summit on Leadership Expected to Spark Growth

Bowie, Maryland – (February 16, 2007). Business and professional leaders met yesterday at a summit, titled The Leadership Crisis, to hear Dr. Vera R. Jackson, President and CEO of Vera Jackson and Associates, offer a strategic plan for Leadership in the 21st Century. Dr. Jackson discussed the importance of leadership growth, professional and personal accountability, and a genuine commitment to individuals and communities as the core elements of business and leadership success and sustainability. “The dialogue served as the catalyst to help leaders to connect with others who share a similar philosophy. If leaders apply the seven steps to success that I shared during our time together, there will be a remarkable difference in how business is conducted,” said Dr. Jackson.

The summit, hosted by Vera Jackson and Associates, was intended to serve as a means of helping leaders to begin to identify best practices and explore measures for promoting leadership excellence. The leaders discussed business topics that explored the most prevalent challenges facing leaders today. As a means of making a greater investment in themselves and their business environments, the leaders vowed to begin to address ways of eliminating administrative and operational barriers and to introducing mechanisms for sustainable partnerships with other business and professional leaders.
